

Pro-Life Alliance of Gays and Lesbians (PLAGAL)

Who We Are

We are a diverse association of men and women who share common ground on two points:

- We believe in the intrinsic right to life of all individuals regardless of race, gender, religion, sexual orientation -- born or unborn.
- We are members and friends of the gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgendered (GLBT) community.

Equal Partners

The messages of the GLBT community and the pro-life movement are the same: All human life deserves protection and respect simply because it is human. PLAGAL bridges the gap between our communities boldly asserting that we are:

Pro-Gay, Pro-Life, Pro-Human

Strange Bedfellows?

Prominent leaders of some gay and lesbian organizations have established a misguided alliance with pro-choice groups.

If, as recent scientific discoveries suggest, homosexuality has a genetic basis, the day may not be far off when medical providers will be able to determine if a child in the womb is predisposed to be gay.

Assuming medial science achieves this ability; will it not be possible to do by legal surgical procedure what all the homophobes and gay-bashers throughout history have failed to do -- eliminate gays and lesbians once and for all?

Can we as gay people trust pro-choice advocates to respect human dignity irrespective of sexual orientation or will they sacrifice the future of countless pre-born gay people on the altar of "choice"?

Today, under the guise of choice, some children are aborted simply because they are the "wrong" sex. What chance would unborn children have of being spared from abortion if they're deemed to have the wrong sexual orientation?

Just Like Homophobia

Lest we forget the pro-choice advocates' core value as embodied in their slogans "Abortion on demand and without apology:"

Just like homophobia --

Abortion denies individuals their fundamental humanity.

Just like homophobia --

Abortion would rid society of real human beings whose existence is deemed to be threatening or undesirable.

Just like homophobia --

Abortion denies one's right simply to be a member of society, or even be alive.

A Higher Standard

PLAGAL is committed to the concept that people can live together in peace regardless of sexuality, without hate, without fear. We seek a world where a woman's right to control her body is not pitted against her child's right to exist. We support a compassionate society where both can live.

Human Rights Start When Human Life Begins

Our Record

Since our founding in 1990 PLAGAL has:

- Provided a growing presence in the GLBT community and the pro-life movement.
- Championed the effective treatment of HIV+ expectant mothers
- Taken a lead in exposing the link between abortion and breast cancer
- Uncovered and challenged the diversion of funds from various AIDS walks to abortion providers
- Peacefully confronted and confounded the abortion industry by properly refocusing the debate on the taking of human life and not the fiction of a denied "personal freedom"

rev. 02/2005

“Abortion touches everyone. It shows no social or economic boundaries. It does not matter what religious affiliation you are, the color of your skin or which political party you belong to. It does not even matter whether you are gay or straight. We all have sisters, cousins, aunts and so on that can be in a position of a crisis pregnancy. Maybe even some of the women within the pro-life movement itself have been in a position where pregnancy seemed a burden at the time. As long as we are human we are affected. That is why all people who are pro-life needs to work together. We need to set aside our differences and work together to give women real choices. Choices that are alternatives to abortion, choices that will empower them, choices that will help them to not to feel that abortion is the only alternative.”
